Police Technical launches EquipmentReports.org

Terre Haute, IN - April 8, 2007 Police Technical LLC is proud to announce the release of EquipmentReports.org, the Source for Public Safety Equipment Evaluations. Formally announced at the 2007 Annual ILEETA International Training Conference and Expo being held in Wheeling, IL on April 17-21, 2007. EquipmentReports.org is the only website dedicated to helping public safety personnel share information about equipment and products.

“There’s something wrong in the world when a civilian can find better information about dishwashers than a police officer can find about ballistic vests”, Thomas Manson, owner of Police Technical LLC, parent company of EquipmentReports.org. “

Over a two year period EquipmentReports.org was created with the assistance a 30 person law enforcement Advisory Board with representatives from all areas of public safety including: Sworn members from all levels of service, law enforcement trainers, and industry and product manufacturing representatives. “With the input of numerous stakeholders we developed a review system that provides real product insight,” Thomas Manson.

EquipmentReports.org allows officers to review virtually any product they have used in the course of their duties. The evaluation model includes 17 main subject categories with more than 100 sub categories. 150 product manufacturers are already listed in the system. In a matter of minutes an officer can submit a report on any public safety product from apparel to a xeon light bulbs and everything in between, and once accepted to the system those reports are searchable by company and subject.

Partnership with GT Distributors - $1.00 for Each Report
Police Technical LLC is also pleased to announce our alliance with GT Distributors (Jim Orr, President, Austin, TX), America’s premier supplier of public safety equipment since 1972. For every report accepted* to the EquipmentReports.org system, the reviewer will receive $1.00 dollar in credit which may be redeemed in the form of a GT Distributors Gift Card once the user has 10 reports accepted to the system. This adds additional value to the already valuable process of officer’s sharing product information.

Beyond adding financial value to each and every report, GT Distributors has gone a step further to support EquipmentReports.org by encouraging their customers to complete evaluations on purchased equipment and products. While simple in procedure the purpose speaks volumes about GT Distributors dedication to customer service and to the products they sell. No other public safety distributor has taken the steps to allow their customers to evaluate ALL of their products and services in a semi-public forum. In the confidential realm of law enforcement equipment manufacturing GT Distributors is setting a new industry standard.

Advertising opportunities for standard banner sizes are available on a monthly contract basis.
